Introduction
The purpose of this document is to convey the strategic direction of the Washington D.C. Coalition of the Good Food Purchasing Program (GFPP). This strategy was developed based on three key tenets:

1. This strategy reflects the direction of the Coalition as a collective entity, unique from each of the individual representatives that comprise the Coalition.
2. This strategy was developed by the Coalition, for the Coalition.
3. This strategy is a living document that will continue to evolve as the Coalition’s priorities and realities change.

GFPP Overview
The Good Food Purchasing Program is a national program administered by the Center for Good Food Purchasing (CGFP). The program focuses on improving communities through food purchasing. It is built upon five values:

1. Local Economies: “Support small- and mid-sized agricultural and food processing operations within the local area or region.”
2. Environmental Sustainability: “Source from producers that employ sustainable production systems that reduce or eliminate synthetic pesticides and fertilizers; avoid the use of hormones, routine antibiotics and genetic engineering; conserve soil and water; protect and enhance wildlife habitats and biodiversity; and reduce on-farm energy and water consumption, food waste and greenhouse gas emissions; and increase menu options that have lower carbon and water footprints.”
3. Valued Workforce: “Provide safe and healthy working conditions and fair compensation for all food chain workers and producers from production to consumption.”
5. Nutrition: “Promote health and well-being by offering generous portions of vegetables, fruit, whole grains and minimally processed foods, while reducing salt, added sugars, saturated fats, and red meat consumption, and eliminating artificial additives. Improving equity, affordability, accessibility, and consumption of high quality culturally relevant Good Food in all communities is central to our focus on advancing Good Food purchasing practices.”

GFPP has been implemented in cities across the country, including but not limited to Boston, Los Angeles, Austin, Buffalo, Chicago, and Cincinnati. Since its inception, public institutions have begun investing a total of nearly $120 million annually towards the five values of the GFPP. These contributions reflect widespread commitment to the tenets of the program, commitment that is evident in the implementation of GFPP in Washington D.C.

GFPP in Washington D.C.
The Washington D.C. GFPP Coalition was founded in 2016, and is comprised of over 20 D.C. public, private, and non-profit groups dedicated to improving food purchasing across the District. The Coalition grew out of the publication of the Sustainable D.C. Plan, which focuses on transforming Washington D.C. into the “healthiest, greenest, most livable city in the U.S.” over the next 20 years. The Sustainable D.C. Plan outlines the following goals:

1. Local Food: “Bring locally-grown food within a quarter mile of 75% of the population.”
2. Sustainability: “Cut citywide greenhouse gas emissions by 50%.”
3. Workforce: “Increase by 5 times the number of jobs providing green goods, services, fair wages and working conditions.”
4. Health: Cut citywide obesity rate by 50%.

In its pursuit of these and other goals, the Council of the District of Columbia approved the long-term implementation of GFPP standards in 2018 as a part of The Healthy Student Amendment Act. The bill aims to improve the health and wellness of D.C. students by implementing GFPP throughout District of Columbia Public Schools (DCPS), making DCPS the first school system on the East Coast to implement the program.

D.C. GFPP Coalition Five-Year Strategy
This section outlines the mission, vision, and objectives of the Coalition. This strategy was developed over three strategic planning sessions facilitated by a team of volunteers from Deloitte Consulting LLP between September 2019 – March 2020. The volunteers served as impartial, agnostic guides helping the Coalition navigate the strategic planning process and organize the outputs of that process. Per the guiding principles of this effort, the resulting strategy captured below was developed by and for the Coalition.

This strategic plan includes the following key components:

- Vision and Mission
- Strategic Objectives
- Coalition Roles

- Short-, medium-, and long-term action planning

D.C. GFPP Coalition Vision

Washington D.C. GFPP Coalition Vision Statement

Washington D.C. harnesses the full power of its food purchasing to build a healthier, equitable, thriving, and sustainable future for all.

D.C. GFPP Coalition Mission

Washington D.C. GFPP Coalition Mission Statement

Engage stakeholders, provide expertise and advocate for transparency and policy change to advance the ability of D.C. institutions to implement GFPP standards and advance the values of nutrition, environmental sustainability, fair labor, local economies, racial justice, and animal welfare through food purchasing.

Strategic Objectives

In order to realize its ambitious vision and mission, the Coalition will focus its efforts on achieving five key strategic objectives.

- Racial Justice

  Food justice is racial justice. This Coalition seeks to embed and uphold this objective within all other objectives and actions taken by this Coalition. The Coalition is committed to leveraging food purchasing to invest in and serve DC’s BIPOC communities. As the Coalition moves forward with advancing GFPP implementation, it will work to expand access to food that meets GFPP standards and increase market access for BIPOC farmers and suppliers. Furthermore, this Coalition will work to ensure that its membership is representative of those community members that are most impacted by the GFPP program (including BIPOC food service workers, farmers, participants in institutional meal programs, students, etc.).

Transparency

The Coalition recognizes that transparency in food procurement has the potential to promote shared accountability and enable meaningful participation in the food procurement process, which can promote successful implementation of GFPP in D.C. The Coalition will seek to work collaboratively with DC institutions and policy makers to identify and act on opportunities to increase transparency in food procurement, including procurement processes as well as the outputs of those processes.

Success on GFPP Standards

The Coalition was initially launched to help DCPS and other future GFPP implementing institutions in D.C. reach the highest possible level of success across GFPP standards. The Coalition is eager to continue playing this role by lending its range of expertise and skillsets to help implementing institutions find ways to achieve success across all GFPP value categories and bring the ultimate vision of GFPP to life across Washington D.C.

Expansion

While DCPS is the current focus of GFPP implementation in Washington D.C., the Coalition recognizes the potential to bring the benefits of the program to a larger portion of the D.C. community. The Coalition is committed to expanding GFPP to additional Washington D.C. institutions, both public and private, by engaging those institutions about signing-on to GFPP implementation and supporting their implementation efforts.

Education

Building awareness and understanding of GFPP values is critical to successfully advancing implementation in DCPS and expanding to other DC institutions. The Coalition seeks to educate and communicate to local leaders, policymakers, institutions, and community members about the five categories of GFPP standards, to ensure a broader network is informed about and has the opportunity to get involved in our work to advance values-based food procurement in Washington D.C.
Mobilized Network

In order to realize the unique vision for the GFPP program in D.C., the Coalition is committed to engaging the broader network of local leaders, institutions, and key stakeholders. From DC public and charter school teachers, parents, and students to local farmers and food workers, the Coalition will work to engage and activate key stakeholders in the shaping and success of GFPP in the District. The Coalition will endeavor in achieving this objective to engage and empower BIPOC communities.

The Roles of the Coalition

The Coalition is uniquely positioned to be a powerful vehicle for advancing GFPP adoption in the District. In order to maximize its impact on the D.C. community, the Coalition has identified three key roles that it as a collective body can play in order to achieve its strategic objectives. These roles are defined below, along with specific short-, medium-, and long-term actions the coalition can take to move forward with these roles.

1. Short Term: actions to take within the next six (6) months.
2. Medium Term: Actions to take within the next year.
3. Long Term: Actions to take within the next five years.

Given that this strategy is a living document, these actions can and should be revisited as the Coalition moves forward and makes progress on its strategic objectives.

Advise Institutions

Overview

The Coalition brings together a wide range of organizations that have expertise in the fields of farming, food quality, sustainability, food procurement, protecting workers' rights, health and safety, animal welfare, economic development, public policy, and more. The membership of the coalition will continue to evolve, with a special focus on incorporating groups and individuals representing marginalized communities who can offer perspective and expertise. As a result, the Coalition is in a prime position to advise Washington D.C. institutions involved in implementing GFPP standards on how to continue to improve metrics and strengthen results across value categories, as well as other Coalition priorities, in particular racial justice. This includes implementing institutions such as DCPS, as well as suppliers and other stakeholders.

Action Plan

This section outlines actions for the Coalition’s role in advising institutions. It lists specific steps that the Coalition can take in the short-, medium-, and long-term, while indicating the alignment of those actions to the Coalition’s strategic objectives with color-coding.

Advocate for Policy Change

Overview

Achieving the Coalition’s Strategic Objectives will require policy actions and resource investments by D.C. public and private institutions. As such, the Coalition and its members will work with policymakers and the community to collaboratively support policy changes that expand the number of institutions that adopt the GFPP, improve institutional GFPP scores across all value categories, and that otherwise improve procurement practices in the District in a way that benefits all communities.

Engage Communities

Overview
It is essential that the Coalition engage with and be informed by the range of communities involved in and impacted by food procurement in D.C. The Coalition’s goal will be to facilitate bidirectional and ongoing dialogue between the Coalition and key stakeholders (including students and their families, currently incarcerated individuals, farmers, food service workers, etc) to better understand their current/changing needs and perspectives while also sharing information about the GFPP and Coalition priorities and initiatives. The Coalition will work to ensure that engagement activities prioritize BIPOC stakeholders who are disproportionately impacted by food and environmental injustices including inadequate procurement policies both historically and today. The hope is to create a sustained movement that can heighten multi-stakeholder awareness of each other’s concerns in a manner that builds trust and solidarity, and thereby improves the likelihood of ongoing successful GFPP adoption and implementation in all District institutions.

This section outlines actions for the Coalition’s role in engaging communities. It lists specific steps that the Coalition can take in the short-, medium-, and long-term, while indicating the alignment of those actions to the Coalition’s strategic objectives.

Impact of COVID-19

The Coalition recognizes the pandemic is having and will continue to have far-reaching, seismic effects on food procurement in D.C. Furthermore, the Coalition recognizes that these impacts will be disproportionately felt by historically marginalized communities. Moving forward with the implementation of this strategy, the Coalition will continue to explore ways to refine its objectives and action planning to address the ongoing effects of COVID-19 on the D.C. community and food supply chain while advancing GFPP.

Immediate Next Steps

The Coalition can take the following immediate actions to establish a strong foundation for implementing the above strategic plan:
1. Delegate actions and set specific timelines within Subcommittees.
2. Inventory the expertise and skillsets the Coalition can wield to apply to its various objectives.
3. Prioritize recruitment of community members that stand to be most impacted by GFPP expansion and implementation to the Coalition.
4. Execute election for 2022 Executive Committee Members per the Bylaws.
5. Set fundraising goals to support Executive Committee Member stipends and coalition actions.

Strategic Plan Updates

The Strategic Plan should be updated annually to reflect the changing priorities and objectives of the Coalition.
